Important Notice of Privacy Incident

We are notifying our valued patients of a data breach involving Change Healthcare, a unit of UnitedHealth, a third-party service provider. Though the full extent of the breach is still under investigation, it may include personal and health information shared for specific services. We are taking immediate steps to understand the impact and strengthen our data security, including working with cybersecurity experts and notifying relevant authorities.

For your protection, we advise monitoring account statements and credit reports for unusual activity. Updates will be provided on our website as more information becomes available. We sincerely apologize for any concern this may cause and are committed to keeping you informed. For further inquiries, please continue to check our website.
